SUBJECT: Revised NIS Chapter IX Forecasts for FY 1962 and FY 1963 (con.)

3. The Subcommittee arrived at its selections after careful study of all factors involved. It was the consensus that in view of the fact that 34 NIS Areas remain to be covered it would be unwise at this time to reduce the ratio of three new to five maintenance studies in the Chapter IX forecasts. However, it was recognized that the relative significance of areas not yet treated diminishes as one progresses nearer to the bottom of the priority list. Accordingly, the Subcommittee intends to reexamine annually the validity of the three-to-five ratio, commencing with the forecasts for FY 1964, and make such changes as conditions appear to require.

4. A number of important alternative selections were considered by the Subcommittee for substitution in the FY 1962 and FY 1963 forecasts, with the conclusion that they should be given primary consideration at the time the FY 1964 forecast is prepared. These areas are: NIS 18, Czechoslovakia; NIS 24, Greece; NIS 28A, Syria, or NIS 28B, Lebanon; NIS 35, India; and NIS 36, Pakistan.
